

Homework 6 - Feedback

Note: You will not be penalized for not completing this assignment.

This is really meant to be more of an informal assignment, but will earn you a bonus token if completed thoughtfully.

“The power and benefits of intentional reflection are impactful! Sometimes it can be difficult to spend time reflecting on certain situations as we can become stuck in a repetitive, even negative thought process. This is because many people don’t know how to reflect in a way that is helpful for individual growth. When done correctly, continued reflection can improve self-awareness, lead to personal and professional growth, assist with increasing problem-solving and decision-making skills, improve emotional intelligence and help with goal setting and achievement.” Source

Question 1

What are some things you have done that have helped you to be successful in this course?

Question 2

If you could go back in time to the beginning of the semester and make a change to your habits related to this class, what change would you make?

Question 3

Were there any specific tools, resources, or examples that helped solidify your understanding?

Question 4

Were there any parts of the class that felt unclear or confusing?

Question 5

What teaching methods or activities didn’t work as well for you?

Question 6

Are there any changes to the course you could suggest (outside of general material and methods, I can’t really change that: sorry!)?

Question 7

Have you felt there has been enough time in labs and with due dates for you to comfortably complete assignments?

Question 8

Do you think future students would benefit from having the PCA/Clustering lab split up into 2 weeks?

Question 9

What have been the most challenging aspects of the course so far?

Question 10

What moments in class have you enjoyed the most, and why?